INto ART • Oct.–Dec. 2014

Back Roads of Brown County Studio Tour
Month of October, 2014
Brown County artists and craftsmen open their studios for a glimpse of what inspires them to produce beautiful things. The Fall Back Roads Tour lasts the entire month of October and guides you through the scenic ways from studio to studio. Tour headquarters is the T.C. Steele State Historic Site, studio, home, and gardens of Brown County’s first resident artist, Theodore Clement Steele. Thirteen additional studios are on the tour with seven of the featured artists/craftsmen recognized as Indiana Artisans, the state’s official organization to review and promote the work of highest-quality artisans. Visit <www.BrownCountyStudioTour.com> for more info.

Bloomington Handmade Market
November 8, 2014
The Handmade Market at the Bloomington/Monroe County Convention Center (302 S. College Ave.) on Sat., Nov. 8 brings together 55 craft artists from all over the Midwest, many of which making their only appearance in the area. You can find wearables, jewelry, bath & body products, children’s apparel and toys, and home décor, all with a fresh, urban attitude. If you’ve got college students and young professionals on your holiday shopping list, this is the perfect stop. 10 to 5. Free. <www.bloomingtonhandmademarket.com>.

Artisan Guilds Show
November 14 and 15, 2014
Three Artisan Guilds will move their annual holiday shows from churches on the Eastside to a shared location at the Convention Center at 302 South College Avenue in Bloomington. The Local Clay Potters’ Guild, Bloomington Spinners and Weavers Guild, and Bloomington Glass Guild shows will share the same dates and times—Friday, Nov. 14 from 4 to 9 p.m. and Saturday, Nov. 15, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Brown County Winter Art and Craft Fair
November 28 and 29, 2014
The Winter Art and Craft Fair in Nashville has been the laid-back one-stop shopping experience for three decades. More than 40 artists will display their work. The show runs 10 to 6, Fri., Nov. 28, and 10 to 5, Sat., Nov. 29 at the Season’s Conference Center in Nashville, IN. There is ample free parking and admission is $1. The show is sponsored by the Brown County Craft Guild.

Bloomington Holiday Market
November 29, 2014
Holiday Market is Sat., Nov. 29 from 10 to 3 at Showers Common, located at 8th and Morton Streets in Bloomington. Free. Farm vendors come with a variety of products: prepared food and baked goods, Christmas trees, dried flower bouquets, ornamental wreaths, bread, goat cheese, honey and maple syrup; and more than 40 local and regional artists and craft vendors. Saint Nick will be on hand to greet visitors. A holiday tradition, the TubaSantas performance is scheduled for 1:30 p.m. Check <www.bloomington.in.gov/farmersmarket> nearer the date.
On November 7, the talented ventriloquist Lynn Trefzger will take the stage with a trunk load of characters. Lynn got her start on “Star Search” and has been a premier entertainer for Disney Cruise Lines.

The Night Before Christmas will be presented on December 5, by ArtReach Theatre. This Cincinnati-based troupe will bring a lyrical adaptation that celebrates the joy of family and the magic of holiday stories.

The Déjà Vu Art and Fine Craft Show is the premier event of its type in the state. This year will mark the tenth time the Déjà Vu Art and Fine Craft Show has been presented. Now held in observance of America Recycles Day, this year’s show will feature more than 60 professional artists from Florida, Indiana, Kentucky, and Ohio. The show includes art and fine crafts such as painting, sculpture, jewelry, wearable art, woodworking, glass art, and weaving. The event is held from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday, November 15 at The Commons in Columbus, and is free of charge.

The 2nd annual Festival of Lights Christmas Village will take place on Saturday, December 6, at The Commons Custer Nugent Performance Hall from 1 to 5 p.m. This event is free to the public and will include an interactive gingerbread village, live entertainment, and a holiday market. The Festival of Lights parade will be held on Washington St. right after the festival ends.

Many activities take place within the Columbus Arts District, regardless of the time of year or day of the week. Many of these arts related activities can be found at the Columbus Area Arts Council’s website. Visit <www.artsincolumbus.org> to read more and to sign up for the weekly electronic newsletter.
